Universal Support is what should be offered to all children: the effective inclusion of all pupils in high-quality everyday personalised teaching. Such teaching will, for example, be based on clear objectives that are shared with the children and returned to at the end of the lesson; carefully explain new vocabulary; use lively, interactive teaching styles and make maximum use of visual and kinaesthetic as well as auditory/verbal learning. Approaches like these are the best way to reduce, from the start, the number of children who need extra help with their learning or behaviour.

Targeted Support describes targeted small-group intervention for pupils who can be expected to catch up with their peers. Interventions are designed for children for whom a well-structured short-term programme, possibly delivered by a teaching assistant working with a teacher, is needed to enable them to make progress.

Specialist Support is about intervention for children for whom Universal and Targeted Support are not enough. These children may need a more intensive programme, involving more individual support or specialist expertise.

Whole School SEND Provision

Where this model works effectively, Universal Support and Quality First Teaching will reduce the number of children requiring Targeted Support and, through this, also reduce the number needing more intensive and individual help. This means that school will be able to target their resources more effectively for those that require this.
